

CABERNET SAUVIGNON

Rich, concentrated and highly structured, Cabernet's complex flavors and firm tannins make it the backbone of many blends. French "Left Bank," Bordeaux wines use this as their base. Napa Valley's most widely-planted and well-known grape variety.

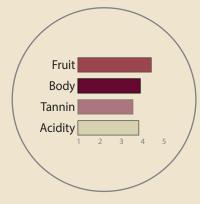

CABERNET FRANC

Cabernet Franc adds fascinating aromatic qualities of violets and sweet, dark fruit. Used in lesser amounts in the Bordeaux region. This grape has become a favorite among sommeliers, and is beginning to capture the fancy of the modern wine drinker.

MALBEC

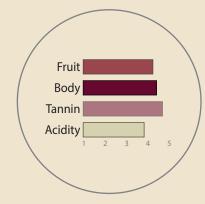

Balanced, broad and richly colored, Malbec adds depth, deep color and aromatic complexity to the blend. Known mainly as a blending grape in France, this variety has really taken off in South America as a single variety.

MERLOT

Relatively fruity in comparison to other Bordeaux varieties, Merlot is full and soft. Its round fruit can be used to fill in the mid-palate of a blend. Generally less tannic or "structured," than its cohorts. The foundation of "Right Bank," Bordeaux wines.

PETIT VERDOT

Full-bodied, flavorful and ink-dark in color, with a broad, rather than deep, palate, Petit Verdot is credited with bringing the "spice" to blends.
